HELPING THE POOR TO HELP OURSELVES

It is never too late to say a good word. Consumer & Oil Price Watch (COPW) Chairman and Industrialist Raul T. Concepcion urges everyone to draw inspiration and guidance from Pope Benedict's Easter message encouraging us to assist those in need, especially in these trying times.

WE HAVE BEEN DISTRACTED ENOUGH. IT IS TIME TO FOCUS ON THE NEEDS OF THE POOR.

There is no escaping the fact that we are in a far greater crisis than we have ever been since Edsa 1. Escalating oil prices in the world market and shortages in basic food commodities, will greatly affect the interest of the poor - in Metro Manila, comprising 742,000 families or 2 million persons.

While COPW had sounded the alarm as early as November of last year, we are glad that now, FINALLY, attention is being given to this harsh reality.

WHAT MUST BE DONE

Prayer. We must channel all our energies and resources towards addressing the needs of the poor. And time needs are basic: Food on the table. Affordable transport fare. Cheaper medicines.
Jobs. A road over their heads. Education for children. People power as we know it will not get the job done. Edsa 1 and 2 have not resulted in economic freedom for our poor. Despite recent robust growth rates, the Philippines remains one of the slowest growing economies in Asia. We must constantly remember that hunger can lead to anger and frustration.

Unity. We must all join hands and be united. Solving the public means overcoming political affiliation, religious belief and social status. Government, the private sector, business, NGOs, the Church, civil society must all come together and work as a team.

Transparency. Distrust in government comes from a perception of lack in transparency as evidenced by negative governance indicators. Corruption is best prevented by transparency and strict playing by the rules.

Accountability. A system of audit and sanctions must strictly be followed and enforced. Good, quality and corruption versus only if no one is held accountable for individuals.

COPW BELIEVES WE HAVE WHAT IT TAKES TO MEET THE CHALLENGE

ENOUGH FUNDS ARE AVAILABLE TO PROVIDE SAFETY NETS FOR THE POOREST OF THE POOR AMONG WHICH ARE:

1. Food subsidies

Through the DSWD and in coordination with business, NGOs, and the Church, a rationing program can be implemented. Basic food commodities such as rice, noodles, powdered, chicken, pork, milk, coffee and cooking oil can be made available to identified and qualified households in Metro Manila's depressed areas.

- COPW is working closely with the DSWD and has been assigned to Anti-Corruption Policy Programs in Pasay City and Calabarzon City.
- There are 17 depressed barangays in Pasay City with total families of 17,580. 8.5% or 825 families were validated and another round of surveys will be done to reach the DSWD target of 1,500 qualified families in Pasay City. In Calabarzon, there are 36 depressed barangays with total families of 46,150. 3.8% or 1,757 families have been validated. Again, another round of survey will be done to reach the target of 1,500 qualified families.
- The package for health care is ₱6,000 per family a year and for education, ONLY 3 children per family will be qualified for a rice subsidy worth ₱3,000 per child or ₱9,000 a year.
- COPW will share its experience with business, civil society, and church groups and ask them to adjust a hierarchy of their choice and volunteer their services in implementing the health, education, and food rationing programs. This will ensure that food subsidies are delivered and received by qualified households.
- In this regard, the DSWD is soliciting our help to ensure that transparency and accountability is observed as they go through the process of identifying which of the poorest of the poor are accredited to the program.
- With oil prices at a record high, the transport sector will position for a fare increase and will have a domino effect. To prevent this, the DOE must fast-track the shift to CNG (Compressed Natural Gas) which costs only P14.52 per liter compared to diesel at P 24.46, a savings of P 9.94 per liter. The savings are equivalent to P 4.00 a day for a city bus running 200 km a day.
- COPW is appreciative of the decision of the President that the funds to subsidize ONLY the transport sector will come from the government share from machine in leaseage.

This subsidy is temporary as B21 will maintain the acquisition of new or second-hand buses from Korea & Japan and extend B21 financing.

THE MOST CRITICAL ISSUE THAT IS FACING US TODAY IS THE PLIGHT OF OUR POOR. IN THIS REGARD, WE NEED TO REINFORCE OUR VALUES OF CORRUPTION, TRANSPARENCY, AND ACCOUNTABILITY.

IN HELPING THE POOR, WE HELP OURSELVES, WE HELP OUR PEOPLE, WE HELP THE NATION.

Big business hits SC ruling; 'GMA privilege given'

MANILA, July 12 (AP) — A landmark Supreme Court ruling that allows big business to challenge government regulations has been widely hailed as a victory for the private sector. The decision, which was handed down by a 6-3 majority, is seen as a significant blow to the power of the government to regulate the economy. It is also seen as a victory for the private sector, which has long been a vocal critic of government intervention in the economy.

Figure 1 is a line graph illustrating the percentage of the total sample for various age groups over time. The Y-axis represents the percentage of the total sample, ranging from 0 to 100. The X-axis represents the year, with labels for 1980, 1990, 2000, 2010, and 2020. The age groups are represented by different line styles: 0-14 (solid line), 15-24 (dashed line), 25-34 (dotted line), 35-44 (dash-dot line), 45-54 (long dashed line), 55-64 (short dashed line), 65-74 (solid line with circles), and 75+ (solid line with triangles). The graph shows a clear trend of aging, with the 0-14 age group decreasing from approximately 25% in 1980 to 10% in 2020, and the 65-74 age group increasing from approximately 15% in 1980 to 35% in 2020.

The diagram shows a 2D Cartesian coordinate system. The horizontal axis is labeled 'x' and the vertical axis is labeled 'y'. A point is located in the first quadrant, with its coordinates labeled as (x, y). A vector is drawn from the origin (0,0) to this point. The vector is labeled with its components, 'x' and 'y', indicating its projection onto the axes. The diagram illustrates the relationship between a point in a 2D space and its corresponding vector representation.

Bishops' apologia for GMA

By the time the bishops' apology for the GMA's decision to air the "Will & Grace" episode was published, the network had already received a letter from the National Council on Religious Freedom, a conservative watchdog group, demanding that the network apologize to the Catholic Church for the episode. The bishops' apology, which was published in the Washington Post on Nov. 7, was a direct response to the network's decision to air the episode. ### Therapy's victory, jaw's agony?

By David J. Reardon

When a patient is told that a procedure is "painless," it's often a good sign that the procedure is not as simple as it sounds. In the case of a recent procedure, the patient's jaw was in agony.

The patient, a 45-year-old woman, had been suffering from a condition called temporomandibular joint dysfunction (TMJ) for several years. She had tried various treatments, including physical therapy, but nothing seemed to help.

Her doctor recommended a procedure called arthrocentesis, which involves injecting a numbing agent into the joint. The patient was told that the procedure was "painless" and that she would be able to go home the same day.

However, the patient's jaw was in agony for several days after the procedure. She was unable to eat or drink and had to be hospitalized for several days.

The doctor who performed the procedure was not aware of the potential complications and was not prepared to handle them. The patient's lawyer is now suing the doctor for malpractice.

This case highlights the importance of proper informed consent. Patients should be told about the risks and benefits of a procedure before they agree to it. Doctors should also be prepared to handle any complications that may arise.

Big Price, little back of neck

The price of a new car is often a major consideration for many buyers. However, the cost of a new car is not the only factor to consider. The cost of a new car is also a reflection of the quality of the car.

A car that costs less may be a good deal, but it may also be a car that is not as reliable or as safe as a more expensive car. Buyers should consider the total cost of ownership, including the cost of maintenance and repairs, when making a decision.

The total cost curve is a straight line that starts at the fixed cost intercept on the vertical axis and slopes upward. The variable cost curve is a straight line that starts at the origin and slopes upward. The total cost curve is the sum of the fixed cost and variable cost curves.

Figure 1 illustrates the experimental setup. A participant is seated at a table, viewing a 3D model of a face on a screen. The participant is instructed to judge the face as either 'attractive' or 'unattractive'. The diagram shows the participant's line of sight directed at the screen, which displays the 3D face model. Labels indicate the participant, the screen, the 3D model of the face, and the two possible judgments: 'Attractive' and 'Unattractive'.
